2. Relationships and Services

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

Investment Advisory Services are offered by AB

For our private wealth clients, AB offers asset allocation advice and discretionary investment management in separately managed accounts. Through our other business units, we offer discretionary investment management to retail investors in separately managed accounts, either directly or through platforms sponsored by intermediaries. Our primary investment strategies include listed equities, fixed income instruments, and mutual funds which are either actively or passively managed. Our services include strategies that are US-only and global, diversified and concentrated, and services that include investments with limited liquidity.

Our offerings are primarily limited to products and services that are managed by AB, but we offer limited products or services by third-party managers to meet other investment objectives not currently offered by AB. All services are available on a fully discretionary basis; however, certain services can be provided on a “non-discretionary basis”, where we will recommend investments to you and you will make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments. As part of our advisory services, we continuously monitor your portfolio to ensure that (1) the positions in your portfolio do not deviate significantly from target weightings and, if applicable (2) your asset allocation does not deviate significantly from the agreed investment objectives. We will make adjustments to your portfolio(s) if either of these events occur.

Many of our offerings have minimums, which vary by account, strategy, asset class or business unit.

Brokerage Services are offered by SCB

For our private wealth clients, we primarily act as an investment advisor to you. However, in delivering our investment advisory services, we may offer ancillary products and services through SCB that are considered brokerage services for regulatory purposes.

These broker-dealer offerings are limited to (1) AB managed private funds (2) third party private funds (3) third party products (institutional money market funds and exchange funds for implementing tax strategies) (4) margin accounts, and (5) Individual Retirement Account (“IRA”) rollovers.

Conversation Starters—Ask Your Financial Professional:

- Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? What types of ancillary brokerage services do you offer?
- How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
- What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

3. Fees, Costs, Conflicts, and Standard Of Conduct

What fees will I pay?

The fees you pay depend on which services you choose.

Investment Adviser (AB)

AB is generally compensated on fees based on a percentage of a client's assets under management. In certain circumstances, we may be compensated under a performance-based fee arrangement or through a fixed-fee arrangement.

Our fee schedules include "breakpoints", where the fee percentage decreases on assets above certain levels, lowering the effective fee rate as your account value exceeds those levels. However, as the total amount of assets that we manage for you increases, either due to performance or adding funds to your portfolio, your total fees will increase. Therefore, we have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets that we manage for you.

For our private wealth clients, an all-inclusive fee is charged; it covers the investment advice that we provide to you, our discretionary portfolio management services, the costs for executing securities trades through affiliated and/or third-party brokers and the custody of your assets by SCB.

As the all-inclusive fee includes transaction costs and fees to custody of your assets, it is generally higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee that does not include these costs and fees. Typically, you will pay the advisory fee each quarter in advance unless we agree to an alternative approach.

If you engage AB as your investment adviser but do not allow us to use an affiliated broker to execute your trades or SCB to custody your assets, then you may be charged for those services by the brokers and/or custodians that you select.

Broker-Dealer (SCB)

SCB does not charge fees for providing custody or clearing services. A limited number of clients who are on fee schedules that are not all-inclusive may face commission charges for transaction, and AB has an incentive to direct those trades to an affiliated broker-dealer for execution and to trade more frequently.

We receive compensation from third parties for selling their products and for ongoing servicing. Additionally, AB earns fees for managing the assets of AB-sponsored private funds (alternative investments) and for managing the assets of IRA rollovers. SCB has an incentive to encourage you to purchase these products with assets not already managed by AB, including rolling over IRAs.

If you carry a margin balance, SCB earns "net interest" representing the difference between the interest charged on your margin balance and the financing cost to fund that balance. The amount of net interest fluctuates based on the source of our financing. We have an incentive to encourage you to use or increase your margin balance rather than liquidate assets in your account. However, regulatory requirements limit the amount of margin that we may offer to you based on the market value and types of assets that you have in your account as collateral.

Additional information: Please see Form ADV, Part 2A brochure (Items 5A, B, C, and D), your account agreements, our Services and Policies Manual available at bernstein.com/formcrssp, advisory agreements, offering disclosures, and other applicable documents. You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

Conversation Starters—Ask Your Financial Professional:

- Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations as my broker-dealer or when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser or provide you with a recommendation as your broker dealer, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations and investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

Third-Party Payments: SCB receives payments from the third-party product sponsors when we recommend or sell those products. As such, we have an incentive to recommend those products rather than recommend that you seek potentially lower cost options elsewhere.

Selecting Execution Brokers - AB and its employees have a variety of relationships with the financial services firms that execute our client trades, including affiliated brokers. As such, we have an incentive to select affiliated brokers when executing trades for accounts that are not on an all-inclusive fee schedule.

Additional information: For additional information, please see Our Approach to Conflicts, Form ADV, Part 2A brochure, your account agreements, and our Services and Policies Manual available at bernstein.com/formcrssp.

How do your financial professionals make money?

For the private wealth business, your financial advisor is generally compensated based on a percentage of the revenue AB receives from his or her clients, which includes commissions for accounts not on an all-inclusive fee schedule. For certain investment services, including many of the alternative investments managed by AB, your financial advisor is compensated based on a percentage of his or her clients' assets under management. AB and its financial advisors have historically received, and continue to receive, higher fees and compensation from certain asset classes (e.g., alternative investments, equity, and other active investment strategies). While this difference in fees and compensation provides an incentive for your financial advisor to recommend asset allocations and investments that generate higher fees, financial advisors are required to make recommendations that are in the best interest of each client in light of their investment profile. Financial advisors may also receive discretionary bonuses comprised of cash, AB units, or deferred compensation awards in the sole discretion of AB.

Our other financial professionals are paid compensation that includes salary and incentive compensation (bonus). The salary portion is fixed and reflects the financial professionals' roles and responsibilities. The incentive compensation portion is determined by (1) the firm compensation pool based on firm revenue and (2) the individual's performance.
