What investment	MayTech offers investment advisory services to retail and institutional investors. MayTech's advisory services include portfolio management of separately managed accounts, model delivery, sub-management of services and	institutional portfolios and a private hedge fund. We continuously monitor all accounts based on the advice can	investment guidelines and objectives, as part of our standard advisory services. We also advise a private you provide	hedge fund, which has retail investors. Hedge fund investment guidelines and restrictions are described in a me?	private fund offering document available only to qualified investors.
	Generally, advisory services are discretionary, however MayTech manages a limited number of non-discretionary accounts. Discretionary means we buy and sell securities in our clients' accounts without seeking approval. Non-discretionary means the client makes the ultimate decision regarding purchases and sales of investments. If a client is restricted from certain investments, MayTech will tailor its services accordingly. Clients with Separately Managed Accounts will sign an investment management agreement giving us this authority. This agreement will remain in place until you or MayTech terminate the relationship.
	Any restrictions will be detailed in this agreement.
	Client account holdings primarily include equities but may also include fixed income and exchange traded funds ("ETFs") securities listed on major market exchanges and a private hedge fund we manage.

Conversation Starter	You are encouraged to ask a financial professional and start a conversation with the following additional questions about the impact of fees and costs on investments:
	 Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?
What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?	 When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means. The more assets there are in a client's advisory account, the more a retail investor will pay in fees, and our firm may therefore have an incentive to encourage the retail investor to increase the assets in his or her account or to engage in riskier investment techniques to increase the account size. There are potential conflicts of interest that arise when managing side-by-side fixed fee accounts and performance fee accounts due to an incentive to favor higher fee-paying accounts in the allocation of investment opportunities. Performance fee arrangements can create an incentive for MayTech to recommend investments that are riskier or more speculative than those which would be recommended under a different fee arrangement. There is also the conflict of providing preferential treatment to private funds and investors over others in terms of allocation of management time, resources, and investment opportunities. A conflict may also exist from certain client accounts owning investments that MayTech, its employees, or its owners and their affiliates are also invested in. For detailed information about our conflicts of interest, please see our Form ADV Part 2A, including Item 5, Item 10, Item 12 and Item 14, posted on the Investment Adviser Public Disclosure website at: https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/285985
